Why does Damascus need a diesel generator?

With most electricity generation plants down, many restaurants and businesses in Damascus rely on noisy diesel-powered generators. The fuel to run them is also in short supply in Syria.

Where does Damascus gas come from?

“This gas you see is from Lebanon,” says Abdo Saadeldine, 23, one of the ubiquitous fuel resellers who have popped up all over Damascus since the fall of the old regime, pointing to dozens of green plastic jerry cans at his feet.

What happens in Damascus at night?

A fruit stand is lit by a battery-powered lamp on a blackened street in Damascus, the capital of Syria. DAMASCUS, Syria -- At night, Damascus remains raucous as roadside vendors, motorbikes and traffic surge. Take just a few steps off the side of a highway bisecting the Syrian capital, however, and the night envelopes you.
